

In conclusion, Duffy presents love as dangerous, emotional and most importantly unconventional. This can be seen through the structure of the poem, the irregular line lengths, no rhyme scheme and the peculiar number of stanzas all come together to emphasize this fact, this could reflect how relationships are peculiar and irregular given her own past experiences.

- Connective that tracks
- Refer back to question
- Point
- Embedded quote
- Analysis
- Subject terminology
- Link to a different part of the poem
- Link to theme
- Reader opinion
- Own opinion